Experienced in the mobile arena.

Aquire was the first to create a mobile enterprise directory application for the earliest smartphones. Now we've redefined this must-have solution to keep pace with the heightened demand for mobile devices used in the current business arena. With more corporate-sponsored smartphone programs than ever that provide their employees with 24/7 communication capabilities, OrgPublisher Mobile Directory keeps the workforce connected on any platform — iPhone/iPad, Android, BlackBerry, or Windows Mobile/Phone.

Today's office isn't where it used to be.

More employees are working from alternative locations — home, client sites, in the field, etc. As a result, your workforce needs additional tools to help them locate and communicate with other employees. Mobile devices are being used for email communication, document downloads, information searches — and now with OrgPublisher Mobile Directory — the corporate employee network. This allows greater productivity and increased collaboration among workers, giving organizations an immediate return on investment.

Quick access to workers spanning departments, divisions and more.

Workers often need to identify and communicate with colleagues in an instant to share pertinent information or tap into another's knowledge of key projects. OrgPublisher Mobile Directory delivers access to employee contact data through multiple search options — last or first name, job title, department or team title, work location and more. Semantic search capability returns all similar results pertaining to your search. With levels of configurability, search variables can be defined to fit your organization's particular directory objectives — even to search throughout multiple sister companies or divisions simultaneously.

Secure access to select data elements.

To ensure users can validate the colleague they are searching for and to collect all of their appropriate data easily, searchers can instantly access full employee contact data via the Employee Detail page. Departmental and team-specific security allows you to control which data elements are displayed — including employee photos, if desired.

The right solution for mobile directory access.

OrgPublisher Mobile Directory delivers the communication access your workforce requires to identify and locate colleagues through the manner that they are becoming more dependent on every day — the mobile device. Now you can provide that capability in a secure, stable solution from Aquire.

In conjunction with OrgPublisher Premier, OrgPublisher Mobile Directory allows your workforce to:

- Access corporate directory via iPhone/iPad, Android, BlackBerry or Windows phones
- Facilitate greater communication among colleagues
- Increase efficiency and productivity throughout the company
- Locate colleagues organization-wide via multiple search variables
- Utilize intelligent, semantic searches for complete search results
- View a quick, compact summary of employee information
- Access corporate workforce data from any location, at any time
- Collaborate with team members to leverage collective knowledge
- Manage access through departmental and team-specific security controls
